A diagram of a human dental arch, likely a maxillary (upper) arch, viewed from the front. The teeth are numbered 1 through 8 on both the left and right sides, starting from the central incisors (1) and moving towards the molars (8). A vertical line runs down the center of the arch. A horizontal line crosses the arch, with the letter 'D' on the left and 'C' on the right. The teeth are depicted with detailed outlines showing cusps and roots.
